"Pursuant to the foregoing amended regulations postmasters shall, on and after Nov. 2, 1917, see that postage is paid at the rate of 3 cents an ounce or fraction thereof on letters and other first-class matter except drop letters. All drop letters, that is letters mailed for delivery from the office at which posted including those for delivery by city, rural or other carrier of such office, are required to have postage paid on them at the rate of 2 cents an ounce or fraction thereof. Postal cards are required to be prepaid 2 cents and therefore, the 1-cent postal cards must have a 1-cent postage stamp affixed to them in addition to the 1-cent stamp impressed on such cards. Post cards (private mailing cards) bearing written messages must have 2 cents postage prepaid on them. Postmasters at offices of address shall be careful to rate up with the proper amount of postage due all mail reaching their offices with the postage insufficiently prepaid. The failure of any postmaster to observe the foregoing shall be reported to the third assistant postmaster general, division of classification."

Hey, You Fans! Jess Orndorff's Back; Here to Stay, Says

Moonlight baseball is the latest. In fact, it is so late that it hasn't been tried out yet. But that is why Jess Orndorff, he of the "Charlie Horse" arm, is back in Kingman. Jess caused great gobs of grief to trickle down the cheeks of Kingman fans last summer when he stole away from town for the big league. Now he has stolen back and caused the stock of the fans to rise 1000 percent.

Jess dropped into town, as though from a German airplane, one bright morning before breakfast this week. His friends rushed at him with open arms and almost mobbed him with their affections. There were several others, about town though who "knew it would happen", for Jess had written them off and on all summer that he was "homesick" and just aching for a chance to be back in Kingman.

Jess hasn't divulged his plans as yet, but some of the town sports are willing to wager their next year's salary that Jess is planning to organize a "Moonlight" baseball club or something like that. He might be figuring on playing a winter series. Some made so bold as to predict that the big leaguer was out here to try to scare up a post-season series with one of the Coast league contingents.

Anyway, he's here and says he's going to stay this time.

Judge Ellis returned last Sunday from Globe where he had been hearing cases growing out of the labor disturbances last summer.

AMERICANS MUST SAVE FOOD IF WAR IS TO BE WON SOON

Food Administrator Hoover is sending out a number of live-wire agents to awaken the nation to the necessity for food conservation, that the war may be won. The second representative to come to Arizona is C. W. Grist, just from similar work in California. Mr. Grist, at the State Capitol, has brought fresh energy to the staff of the State Administrator T. A. Riordan, by presentation of data of starting sort, showing that far more than powder, bullets and men will be needed from America.

He called special attention to the fact that Germany before the war produced 75 percent of the food she needed. Her conquests of territory have been almost entirely of food producing sections, such as Rumania, Serbia, Poland and Belgium and from these sections, largely by labor of a subjugated people, she has obtained the missing 25 percent, possibly to the grievous hardship of the producing sections, but to the benefit of Germany.

Great Britain, on the contrary, before the war was only one-third self-supporting in a food way, while France lacked much. The struggle of Germany today is to starve out Great Britain and France and it is the duty of the American nation to see that her allies have at least the stamina that comes from abundant food, that the battles of democracy may be fought by other than starving men. The situation already is serious and the great needs of the allies for food should not be minimized.

For this reason the national administration is urging personal participation in food conservation plans by every man, woman and child within the United States. Food production must be keyed up to the highest possible point. The food produced must be used to the very best possible advantage and all waste must be eliminated. If these things cannot be accomplished by volunteer effort, then must come compulsory action along the lines that have proven successful in Germany.

CANYON PROJECT TO BE RESUMED SOON

That the giant dam across the Colorado river at Diamond canyon will be built as soon as war conditions become settled, is the belief of E. H. Carpenter of Peach Springs, who has been engaged in making hydrographic prints for eastern capitalists proposing to build the project. Mr. Carpenter was in Kingman this week on business and said he expected an engineer out from New York in the near future.

The plan is to construct a big electric plant to generate electricity for the whole of northwest Arizona. It would be utilized for mine and mill operation and doubtless would do much for the industrial development of this part of the country.

At present the engineers who made the preliminary survey and took soundings are engaged in war activities, but as soon as their services are available for peaceful pursuits they will return to the canyon.

FIELDS IS SUING THE KEYSTONE COMPANY

Arguments were in progress in superior court today on the plea in abatement filed by the defense in the case of the Fields Flotation company versus the Keystone Consolidated Mining company. The Fields Flotation company is suing the Keystone for about $9,000 royalty for use of what is known as the "Fields process" in the mill. The arguments were expected to continue throughout the day and probably the case will go to trial on its merits at some later date.
